Gatsby Teacher Fellowships

Gatsby Teacher Fellowships are a great opportunity for teachers across D&T, Maths and Science to develop new and exciting teaching and learning methods or establish models of good practice and provide sound case study material in their specialist area. Many of TEPs regular contributors and supporters are themselves successful Gatsby Teacher Fellows.

Do take a look at the opportunities that a fellowship year in 2005-2006 can provide and note the deadline in January 2005 for applicants. Visitors to the TEP website can follow the weblink to the GTF site or can log on directly to www.gtf.org.uk to read more about applying for a fellowship and looking at reports from previous fellows.

GATSBY TECHNICAL EDUCATION PROJECTS

GATSBY TEACHER FELLOWSHIPS FOR 2005-2006

Proposals are sought from teachers of mathematics, science or design and technology for up to twelve Fellowships offered by the Gatsby Technical Education Projects, beginning in September 2005.

The Fellowships have been created to enable teachers to develop further their contribution to the effective and inspirational teaching of their subject.

Proposals might be of a diverse nature, including, for example:

- ▶▶ developing materials for projects or experiments;
- ▶▶ innovations in curriculum development;
- ▶▶ model lessons, analysis and advice for student teachers;
- ▶▶ case studies of original practice;
- ▶▶ in-service training.

Each Fellowship will provide an honorarium to the teacher of £1,000 and up to £3,000 to cover specific costs associated with the Fellowship: materials, supply cover etc.

Applicants should be in full-time teaching in UK maintained primary or secondary schools or sixth form colleges.
