

Design & Technology arrives at Cambridge

The Gatsby sponsored SCITT started in September 2000 and is based in the Faculty of Education, Cambridge University. It is the first time Design & Technology at secondary level has been on offer at the University.

The specialist areas on offer are systems and control and resistant materials. Intense training in these two specialisms takes place in the Faculty, in partnership schools and during three separate residential training weeks which take place at various times throughout the year. All trainees are trained in the use of Pro Desktop and are trained in all aspects of health and safety. Trainees come from a variety of backgrounds including, product design, jewellery design, furniture design and mechanical engineering. The Gatsby sponsorship means the trainees use, and in many cases are given, state of the art teaching resources to use in the classroom. All materials and the residential training weeks are also generously sponsored by Gatsby and TEP.
